

Mother nature rearranging her house

Ann Wefer, of McDowell, a retired city planner and life member of the National Speleological Society with extensive knowledge of karst topography, said ridge-tops altered by construction or excavation can have consequences on land and people living below, as she has illustrated here.